WILL TRY SPENCER

IN NOVEMBER.
Date Set for the 13th and an Insanity Defense is Expected.

It has been announced by Chief Justice John Adams Allen, of the Massachusetts superior court that Monday, Nov. 13, has been selected as the day for opening the trial at Springfield of Spertan G. Spencer, formerly of Lebanon, who is charged with the murder of Miss Martha B. Blackstone in Springfield on March 13, 1910.

Spencer will be issued in due course for 200 talismans, as was done a year ago, when Spencer was first scheduled to be tried. It is expected that he will be the same as that prepared last year, insanity. Spencer is reported to be in poor physical condition, and it is said to induce a belief that he will not be well enough to face trial in November. It was learned that he collapsed completely last week when one of the prisoners of the jail attempted to hang himself. This man was in a cell not far away from Spencer's, and when Spencer heard of it he fell in a swoon and did not regain his senses for nearly three hours. It is understood that he has had two or three other spells since Spencer's return from Bridgewater in August.

It is not expected that Lawyers Stapleton and C. L. Young, who were appointed by the court to defend Spencer, will ask to have the case tried in another county. They did this last year, and the request was granted by Chief Justice Allen. A change of venue has never been granted in this state, and nothing short of actual mob violence would induce such a result. Spencer has been visited by experts in insanity since he came back from Bridgewater, and they are known to have reported that he is in an unsound mental condition. It is understood that while he was in Bridgewater the experts appointed to watch him reported for eight months that he was insane, and then they reported for the next two weeks they reported him sane.

All these reports are likely to figure in the trial, if it ever takes place, and the insanity experts will probably take up many days of the trial. Lawyers Stapleton would not disclose his plan of defense, but it would not be surprising if he again asked to have the case committed to an insane asylum before the date of the trial. If he does this he will meet with the strenuous opposition of the district attorney. No announcement has yet been made about the judge to preside at the Spencer trial, but it is assumed to be Judge Crosby, who is sitting at the present term.

HOLDING UP BRICKWORK.

Strike of Masons' Tenders for Four Hours' Pay a Week Without Work.

Several building contracts about the city are held up by a strike among the masons' tenders, who have demanded 48 hours' pay a week for 44 hours' work. The contractors have not consented to grant them the gratuity, and the work has stopped. Masons and carpenters went to their jobs on Wednesday, but the masons could do no work without the helpers, and it is necessary on one of the jobs that the brickwork be pushed along to give the carpenters a chance. The result is that a number are not working, in addition to the strikers.

It is stated that there is not much such work about the city at the present time, but where it is being done the owners are desirous of getting it along so it can be covered in.

Central Baptist Philathes.

The Philathes class of the Central Baptist church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. J. Swan. The meeting was called to order, and a prayer was led by Mrs. Swan.

DR. BONOFF CHARGED Mahoney Case Continued.

Entered Plea of Not Guilty in Superior Court—Prisoner Has Assumed Many Names—Arson Case Will Go To Jury Today.

In the criminal superior court here on Wednesday afternoon Dr. A. Bonoff, as he has been known lately about this section, was put to plea, he having been brought into court on a bench warrant from the Norwich state hospital, where he has been a patient for the past few weeks, but formerly an employee. He was charged with bigamy, which he denied, and also with arson and at the request of his counsel, Attorney Barnes, the matter went over until Tuesday. The case against Mike Levin, charged with horse stealing, was also on the docket. The Mahoney case against Henry and Daniel Mahoney of this city and Daniel Kodlak go over until next term. The Mahoney case concerns the harboring of a minor female for immoral purposes.

Arson Case Testimony Finished.

At the opening of the morning session the testimony was resumed in the trial of the case of the state vs. Courtland Maynard of Waterford, charged with burning the house of J. P. Brown. The accused resumed his place on the stand and testified that he never told Jacob Hester that he set fire to the house and did not drink with Hester, though rum was offered him. He also denied being with Ella Hartland near the Brown house the night of the fire, or that he told Mrs. Goss to keep her mouth shut about what she knew. Mr. Maynard said that James Comstock told him of the fire. He maintained that he had been to Gardner Lake the Saturday of the fire and that on the way home he called on Ella in Montville and later went to the Goss house. When he left the Goss house it was about 10:15 and at the McPartland place he broke his lantern as he was getting a drink. He later threw it away. Thereafter he had trouble finding his way, as it was foggy, and wandered about some time before he got home. He denied knowing anything about the fire or what caused it. He said the Hartland woman had not lived with him, but had been to his place to straighten up his house, and he paid her for it. He told her that Brown had not used her right as his housekeeper. After the fire he told her she was suspected and that he was prepared to prove where she was that night, and she said she could. Maynard admitted that he had been at the time of the fire, but that he and once he served time in Wethersfield and another time a year in jail. Ella Hartland, her niece, Mrs. Miller, and her sister, Mrs. Estelle Miller, testified in behalf of Maynard as to calling upon Ella.

This completed the evidence and the arguments were made by Attorneys Burrows, Smith and Hull. Judge Reed will charge the jury this morning and a verdict will be returned. The case is expected to be the last case tried this term except the Bonoff case.

The first wife is here and has stated that her husband has been concerned in many affairs and that she has helped him. She said she was married and she has never seen it since. NEW YEAR'S DAY.

Beginning of Hebrew Year of 5672 on Saturday.

Saturday, September 23, will be Rosh Hashanah, or the Jewish New Year's day. It will mark the beginning of the Hebrew year 5672. The observance of this holy day begins with the orthodox Jews on Friday evening, September 22, and continues until sundown of Sunday, September 23. The reformed Jews celebrate only the first day. With the Jews, Rosh Hashanah is rather a day of solemn memorial than of gladness. It reminds them that they owe themselves the duty of introspection, or self-examination and self-judgment. The sounding of the shofar or ram's horn is the particular ceremony in the service which supposedly arouses the conscience to the performance of duty. The observance of the solemnities of Friday and Saturday, the Hebrew greetings, "A good year," and "Mayest thou be inscribed in the book of life for a good year," are sent broadcast among the Jews, and a festival, marked with a contrasting spirit of rejoicing, supervenes the previous solemnities.
